

It's A Beautiful Life
By Amos the Transparent

When I sat down on the bed and you started to cry oh my
It seemed that no one could erase that sad look on your face if they tried

It must have been a long time buried inside

Our chariot is racing as the stars are replaced with lightness
A diamond ring is such a curious thing if you mind it
It's a beautiful life if you're alive
It's a beautiful life if you survive
It's a beautiful life if you get through these nights

Don't forget about the truth in the darkest hours of youth
